

TowerData Reverse Email Append

Reach your online customers offline.

With reverse email append, you'll be able to segment your email customers by location and market to them via direct mail.

TowerData's Reverse Email Append service can enhance your email database by adding the names and postal addresses of your customers. You'll gain the ability to market to them through direct mail and segment your database by demographics as well as geography.

In just a couple of days, our service will match postal information to 25% to 50% of your database, and all our results are CASS certified (Coding Accuracy Support System) by the United States Postal Service for accurate postal delivery at discount rates.

Gain access to your customers through an alternate medium.

Studies have shown time and again that multi-channel marketing increases response rates. With TowerData's reverse email append service you will gain the ability to reach your customers offline as well as on. Reverse email append also provides you with the ability to better segment through zip code, city, state and gender. Make your marketing more relevant by gaining greater insight into your database.

Tap in to an unequalled in-house reverse email append database.

TowerData maintains an in-house database of 90 million unique email addresses all attached to a first name, last name, and a CASS certified postal address—refreshed weekly. An industry leading resource, the TowerData database is the backbone for many of the append services on the market, and by working directly with us, you avoid middleman or broker costs. We also have the relationships to match your file against multiple providers at an unparalleled price.

Accurate results for better performance.

While Internet data can be full of inaccuracies, TowerData's advanced data quality does not permit partial addresses or inaccurate data into our database. We go a step farther than the industry standard and certify that all postal addresses are valid and will be accepted for delivery by the USPS. Don't waste money on bad data you can't use—with TowerData you are guaranteed quality results.

Turn to TowerData with confidence.

Email data is our specialty. Unlike other vendors, TowerData reverse email appending services are maintained in-house, so your valuable customer files stay secure and are processed quickly. Because we use our own technology, you can have 100% confidence in the quality and accuracy of our data.
